竭诚欢迎海内外有识之士关注榆林；热切期盼与海外城市广交朋友、共谋发展、共创未来！

Yulin in Brief

Yulin is located in the northernmost part of Shaanxi Province, bordering Shaanxi, Gansu, Ningxia, Inner Mongolia and Shanxi. As an important fulcrum city on the Belt and Road, Yulin exercises jurisdiction over one city, two districts and nine counties. Covering an area of 42,920.18 square kilometers, Yulin is home to more than 3.8 million people.

Geographical Location of Yulin

Cultural Tourism As the origin of the Loess Culture, Yulin is one of the second group historical and cultural cities announced by the State Council. With over 2,000-year history, Yulin is rich in antiquity, unique customs and deep cultural deposits. For example, Zhenbei Fortress (the first fortress along the Great Wall), Tongwan City (the capital built by the Hun) and Shimao Site (the largest prehistoric site in China 4,300 B.C. years ago) record its profound history. The Folk Songs, paper-cutting and Yulin Ditty are the most representative artistic forms in Northern Shaanxi. Hongjiannao (the largest freshwater lake in the inland desert of China), Longzhou Danxia Landform and the Wetland Scenery along Wuding River are precious remains granted to humankind by nature.

Transportation System Because of its geographical location, Yulin has been regarded as the “thoroughfare to five provinces”. The mileage of railways reaches 1,369 kilometers. Xi’an-Yulin bullet train has been operated and Yan’an-Yulin high-speed railway is about to start soon. Moreover, the mileage of expressways to big cities, like Beijing and Shanghai.etc reaches 1,157 kilometers, ranking NO.1 in the province. As the second biggest airport in Shaanxi, the passenger throughput of Yuyang Airport ranks first in Northwest Regional Aviation. Therefore, a “flexible multimodal transportation system” combining highways, railways and airlines gives greater prominence to Yulin as a junction of central and western China.

Transportation System

Natural Resources Yulin is rich in energy and mineral resources. So far, 48 types of minerals in eight main categories have been confirmed. In particular, the estimated reserves of coal, petroleum, natural gas and rock salt respectively reach 280 billion tons, 1 billion tons, 6,000 billion m³ and 6,000 billion tons. There are 46 kinds of crops in Yulin and 23 of them come first in Shaanxi. A number of agricultural products including miscellaneous grains, red dates, green beans, lamb and cashmere are in high yield and quality. Up to now, Yulin has become a vital base for potato production and animal husbandry. Now a modernization of the industrial system featuring high-end energy and chemical, equipment manufacturing, magnalium, textile, modern agriculture and service, cultural tourism and ecological production has taken shape.

Growth Potential In 2020, Yulin’s GDP grew by 4.5% to more than 400 billion yuan, ranking second only to Xi’an. The business environment ranking of Yulin has come top and the credit index occupies first in Shaanxi. Meanwhile, Yulin has been devoted to desertification control over the years and it was honored as the National Forest City in 2019. With the goal of building the Energy Revolution Demonstration Area, Yulin will give priority to the development of renewable energy, accelerate green and low-carbon industry, attach great importance to digital economy and introduce advanced manufacturing and emerging industries in the 14th Five-Year Plan (2021-2025) period. Hence, its strong comprehensiveness of facilities provides investors from home and abroad with a great platform.

We sincerely welcome friends, both domestic and international, to visit Yulin. We look forward to a trip of friendship, cooperation and a better future.
